

Eshe Lovely is the co-leader at Connecting with Humanity. She is currently a senior at Miss Porter's School in Connecticut. She developed a passion for community service and social justice in middle school and has been involved with multiple projects over the years. Eshe joined Connecting with Humanity with a goal to encourage others to contribute to a more inclusive world.

She is passionate about social issues such as racial inequality, ableism, and poverty. Outside of her social justice and community service work, Eshe's extracurricular interests include theater, dance, language, and writing. She hopes to pursue a career in Cognitive Science in the future.